Why the Webinar series?

Inform and train young people and young professionals on the techniques of good land practices in Africa to further facilitate the access to land, namely to young and reduce the rate of disputes.

The webinar series is part of the launching process of the YILAA that we are gradually starting. At this very first step, a first cohort of 20 young people part of our YILAA network will be trained on land governance including advocating for land related issues, raising the cases of land defenders and education on the new land administration reforms on the continent.

Who owns the land and why in different countries the ownership of land varies ?

What are the advantages and disadvantages ? These questions will be answered and many more.

Results to be achieved

- ✓ 20 Young professionals trained in land governance sector.
- ✓ 20 Young people know more about their land rights and are able to sensitize their peers.
- ✓ 20 Young people can easily bring the right land information to their community in the local languages and stand for their communities.

Target group

- ✓ Young people professionals or land governance activists wishing to strengthen their capacity in the field of land, agriculture and the environment.
- ✓ Youth members of our YILAA network and from partner organizations.
